

October 3, 2016

To whom it may concern:

Here in Greeley, we pride ourselves on offering big-city amenities while maintaining small-town charm. Our “All America” City was historically built on agriculture. More diversified today, our other growth sectors include transportation, manufacturing, energy production, health and wellness, and business services. In fact, Greeley was recently ranked as one of the leading cities for future economic growth – at an expected rate twice that of the rest of the nation.

The proposed Rocky Mountain Hyperloop aligns with the industrial and commercial development planned on Greeley’s wide open plains at the eastern edge of our City. Hyperloop One Technology provides an unbelievable opportunity for all of Northern Colorado, and for Greeley in particular, at only 40 miles from the Denver International Airport, to continue to be the business hub for Northern Colorado, providing goods and services to people throughout the Region.

The City of Greeley endorses Rocky Mountain Hyperloop and welcomes the transformation this amenity will bring!

Sincerely,

A handwritten signature in blue ink, reading "Thomas E. Norton". The signature is fluid and cursive, with a long horizontal stroke extending to the right.

Thomas E. Norton
Mayor